At Pittsburgh Lincoln, we’re like a family, providing students with a caring, nurturing environment where they can learn and grow. We have a proven record of success—and plans to continue to prepare each child to succeed in college, career and life. Here are a few of the top reasons children thrive at Lincoln.

1. Experienced teachers.
   There’s a lot to be said about veteran teachers who understand how to encourage and support children and help them overcome obstacles to learning. Lincoln teachers are highly certified professionals and content experts. Nearly 75% have been working at Lincoln for more than 5 years. They come to work every day happy to see their students and provide individualized instruction to prepare each child for middle school, high school and beyond.

2. Full STEAM ahead.
   Every student at Pittsburgh Lincoln is being prepared for the jobs of the future through a dynamic STEAM curriculum. Students from K-5 visit the STEAM lab as a class at least twice each week. They learn robotics and coding using problem solving, math and science. Our after-school program, The Makers Clubhouse, is a full STEAM program.

3. We’re open early—and late.
   Our doors open at 7:35 am so parents can drop off children on their way to work. After school, we provide free programming, snacks and dinner for students from 3-6 pm, and a bus ride home at the end of the day.

4. We’re a STAR school!
   Our school attained STAR status twice. With Students and Teachers Achieving Results, we’re seeing scores rising on PSSA and other achievement tests and growth in both math and English at each grade level.
Community connections.
We are fortunate to have a variety of community partners that enrich our academic programs and provide students with fun learning opportunities after school. We’re also designated a Community School, which means additional resources to improve student learning and build stronger families and healthier communities.

I love that my grandson is engaged in STEAM activities. He really enjoys building with the Legos that are available at Maker’s Clubhouse. Houston Parks, grandfather of Chance Patterson

Pittsburgh Lincoln gets great grades!
In a recent survey, 94% of parents and guardians said they would recommend Lincoln to other families, 99% believe that the adults at Lincoln care about their children and 91% said Lincoln does a good job of bringing important matters to their attention.

Our PRIDE runs deep!
At our morning meetings, students learn important life lessons, including how to respect themselves and others. Our motto, Lincoln PRIDE, stands for:

Perseverance
Responsibility
Integrity
Demonstrate compassion

We’re all about Positivity.
As part of the Positivity Project, students and teachers spend a few minutes in mindful mediation every day. This helps them to pay attention to what is happening right then and identify how they are feeling in the moment so they can respond to what’s going on in a more thoughtful, skilled manner.

Families matter.
Lincoln families are always welcome at school events. We encourage parents and guardians to call or meet with teachers and staff whenever they feel the need, to volunteer and participate in PSCC meetings, Family Fun Night, Take your Father to School Day and other school events.

The Blacks in Wax was an awesome event, and the kids did more than a great job. Randi Hughley, parent of Logan Hughley

A full range of services.
Because many children need extra support to help them reach their full potential, we provide on-site tiered interventions that promote mental health as well as learning support, occupational therapy and speech and language services.
