Pittsburgh CAPA High School in Collaboration with the Richard E. Rauh Conservatory Presents *Annie

Pittsburgh, October 18, 2007 – Pittsburgh CAPA High School in collaboration with the Richard E. Rauh Conservatory, and under the direction of David Knapp, will perform the Tony Award winning blockbuster, Annie. Annie is the story of an orphan and her dog Sandy and their stay at the luxurious home of Oliver Warbucks. Annie works her way into everyone's hearts and learns a few things about herself.

This production of Annie combines the musical talents of the CAPA Orchestra and students from the Richard E. Rauh Conservatory. Performances of the entire production will take place October 25 - 28 at the Byham Theater located at 101 Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, PA 15222. Tickets may be purchased at the Cultural Trust Box Office or at the Byham Box Office prior to the show. Tickets are $20.00 for adults and $10.00 for students.

Pittsburgh CAPA High School is an arts magnet program in the Pittsburgh Public Schools and has been in existence since 1979. Its mission is to provide the highest quality education in an atmosphere that nurtures the individual artistic talents of each student.
